1. When I was still a child
My father 'd say: My son,
Now all the world is great and wide
Because you're young.
But times will come for you
When it's not easy to be kind
And smile,
Therefore now let these words
Be always on your mind:

Refrain:

Some feel like laughing
And suddenly cry,
Some feel like living
And suddenly die.
If you think fortune's on your side
It may just vanish overnight.
Some feel like crying
And laugh all the same.
Some think they're losing -
And suddenly gain.
So, come whatever may,
Whatever people say:
Think of tomorrow,
It's a brandnew day.

2. I thought I had to know
Before I'm old
About myself, and so
I had my fortune told.
How should I live my life
Until my big day comes?
Here's what the wise old woman
Had told me before long:

Refrain:

Some feel like laughing...

3. Sometimes when I see people
In a crowd
Who never change their empty faces
Hard and proud
I wish they'd see the child
Who doesn't know the feel of gold
Happily playing over there,
I wish they had been told

Refrain:

Some feel like laughing
And suddenly cry,
Some feel like living
And suddenly die.
If you think fortune's on your side
It may just vanish overnight.
Some feel like crying
And laugh all the same.
Some think they're losing -
And suddenly gain.
So, come whatever may,
Whatever people say:
Think of tomorrow,
It's a brandnew day.
